

Charity Project

One of the things we are quietly proud of is a project we completed last year. I bought an old 4x4, rebuilt parts of it and, made it fit for the road and, along with fellow members of our club and a group of like-minded people, drove our vehicle from Romford, Essex to Timbuktu, West Africa. The journey took 3 weeks and although I did not drive we stay in contact from our office in Essex ensuring as far as possible the trip went smoothly.

The vehicle arrived safely, where we sold it for over £5,000. The donation went towards local schooling. This is something I would like to do again if we have the opportunity.
